Read Comments Carefully Before Filling InWhen and Where to File

You should file in the Northern District if you were convicted and sentenced in one of these counties: Alameda, Contra Costa, Del Norte, Humboldt, Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Monterey, Napa, San Benito, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, San Francisco, San Mateo and Sonoma. You should also file in this district if you are challenging the manner in which your sentence is being executed, such as loss of good time credits, and you are confined in one of these counties. Habeas L.R. 2254-3(a).

If you are challenging your conviction or sentence and you were not convicted and sentenced in one of the above-named fifteen counties, your petition will likely be transferred to the United States District Court for the district in which the state court that convicted and sentenced you is located. If you are challenging the execution of your sentence and you are not in prison in one of these counties, your petition will likely be transferred to the district court for the district that includes the institution where you are confined. Habeas L.R. 2254-3(b).

PETITIONER WAS DENIED EFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL IN VIOLATION
OF HIS 6TH AND 14TH AMENDMENT U.S.
CONSTITUTION AND ARTICLE - I,
SECTION §14 AND §15 OF CALIFORNIA
CONSTITUTION RIGHTS TO A FAIR TRIAL, LEGAL REPRESENTATION AND DUE PROCESS.

The Sixth Amendment guarantees the right to effective assistance of Counsel in criminal prosecutions. (Strickland vs. Washington, 466 U.S. 668 (1984)).

TRIAL COUNSEL FAILED TO INTERVIEW AND CALL WITNESSES.

A). On the night of petitioners arrest there was a civilian ride-along who was with the arresting officer. Her name was Marie Mason. She was inside of petitioners motel room with Officer Heussman when he went inside of a fannie-pack wrapped around petitioners waist and found a crack pipe and cocaine. At petitioners trial, officer Heussman testified that he found no drugs or contraband on the petitioner. He also stated that petitioner did not have a fannie-pack around his waist when he searched his person. But evidence at trial showed that petitioner did in fact have on a fannie-pack when police officers photographed him inside of his motel room. See, people's exhibits (9-53-61-62). There is also photographic evidence showing a crack cocaine pipe on the bed spread of

1 petitioners motel room. See, (Defense Exhibit-LLL). Once it becomes 2 evident that officer Heussman has lied on the stand. It becomes very 3 important to question his credibility. Especially in light of the fact that 4 he found a gun behind the motel room that petitioner was checked
5 into. The officer also is responsible for finding a tank top T-shirt 6 that was identified as one worn by a robbery suspect. Civilian ride-7 along Marie Mason was the only person who was with officer
8 Heussman from the time of initial contact with the petitioner 9 up until his arrest. She witness all that the officer did. She sat 10 within two feet of the officer and watched him go into the 11 petitioners fannie-pack and pull out drug contraband. She can 12 prove that the officer lied on the stand. But more importantly 13 she can give us an account of what really happened on the night 14 of petitioners arrest.

15 The petitioner is contending that defense counsel's failure to call 16 this witness was in violation of his "Compulsory Process" rights 17 that was held applicable to the States through the Fourteenth 18 Amendment in (Washington v. Texas, 388 U.S. 14, 19 (1967)). The excul-19 patory value of this witness goes towards undermining the credibility 20 of the arresting officer. As well as raising reasonable doubt on Count 14 21 of petitioners trial. Felon in possession of a firearm.

23 B). Defense Counsel failed to call the previous owner of petitioners 24 vehicle. Victim Jennifer Weidner was very adamant on the witness stand 25 when she stated that the suspect drove a gold colored car. While being 26 shown pictures of petitioners car by the defense, she stated that the 27 car in the pictures could not have been the car the suspect drove. So 28 the prosecution had the arresting officer say that though petitioners

1 Car was silver in color, it had a tendency to look gold under certain 2 lighting conditions. The prosecution had other law enforcement 3 witnesses who had saw the car in person testify to the fact that 4 witness Jennifer Weidner could have mistakenly thought that 5 petitioners car looked gold under certain lighting conditions.
6 Exhibit-(1) is a copy of a request by the jury to see the petitioners 7 car in person. The jury were not able to see petitioners car because 8 it had been somehow lost from the police impound. Issues conc-9 erning petitioners car turned out to be major. As it was the subject 10 of an investigation for jury misconduct. With the petitioners car 11 missing from the police impound. The original owner of the car, along 12 with her family members, was just what the jury needed in order to 13 move beyond the prosecutions theory of a car that changes colors.
14 The record shows that Defense Counsel early in the trial that the car 15 was no longer in the police impound.
16 The contention is that Defense Counsel once again abandons petition-17 ers "Compulsory Process" rights under (Washington v. Texas). The jury 18 were dead-locked on counts 12 and 13 once they were told that they 19 could not see petitioner car in person. This witness was crucial to 20 the defense in light of the fact the jury only wanted to know the 21 true color of petitioners car.

23 C). Defense Counsel failed to call witness Eva Sheehan. She was 24 a lady who spoke face to face with the robbery suspect minutes 25 before he went on to rob the "Body Time" store petitioner was on 26 trial for. Victim Balvinder Kaur was one of the ladies robbed in the 27 store "Body Time". She had also saw the suspect in the bookstore prior 28 to him robbing the other store. Balvinder Kaur is the one who told

1 the police officers that she saw the suspect earlier in the book-
2 store talking to Eve Sheehan. An employee who showed the robber
3 some books. Balvinder Kaur said that the only thing the petitioner 4 had in common with the suspect is that they were both black 5 males. Eve Sheehan had more contact with the suspect than anyone 6 and could have testified that Balvinder Kaur was right in saying 7 that the only thing petitioner had in common with the suspect 8 was ethnicity and nothing else. The fact that Mrs. Sheehan had 9 so much contact with the suspect but never called to the line-up 10 or shown a video of the line-up was quite odd. Maybe she was 11 shown the line-up but didn't pick the petitioner.
12 The contention is that Defense Counsel abandoned the "Compulsory 13 Process" right of the petitioner by not interviewing this witness.

15 D). Defense Counsel failed to call crime-scene photographer as witness.
16 The crime-scene photographer was valuable because he saw petitioner 17 car in person and could testify to its true color. The photographer is 18 important to the issue of the white tank-top T-shirt that was suppos-19 edly found in petitioner's car but never photographed with all the other 20 clothing that was found in petitioner's car. The victims in Counts 12 and 21 13 said the suspect wore a white tank top T-shirt. The question is did 22 the police photographer ever see the T-shirt? There is so many questions 23 that need to be answered concerning evidence that was photographed, but lost 24 before being brought to trial. Such as (Peoples-8,9,53,61,62); (Defense-LL); 25 and (People exhibit-22), the white tank top that was brought into the trial 26 but never photographed.

27 The contention is that Defense Counsel abandoned petitioner's "Compulsory 28 Process" rights by failing to call this witness.

1 "The United States Supreme Court clearly 2 recognized the importance of the "Compulsory-3 Process" right. The right to offer testimony
4 of witnesses, and to Compell their attendance, 5 if necessary, is in plain terms, the right to 6 present a defence." (In re Martin, 1987, 44 Cal.
7 3d 1,744 P.2d 374,241, Cal. Rptr. 263.) Citing, 8 (Washington v. Texas, 1967, 388 U.S. 14 [18 L. Ed 9 2d 1019, 87 S.Ct. 1920.)

10
11 Under (Strickland v. Washington, at 2063); the "Compulsory Process" 12 right is attached to the petitioners over all trial right of having evidence 13 presented that is subjected to adversarial testing by an impartial tribunal.
14 Defense Counsel's failure to call forth the aforementioned witnesses. It 15 adversely affected petitioners opportunity to undermine or raise doubt 16 concerning the credibility and or reliability of the prosecutions witness-17 es and evidence.

II

EFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL
STATES CONSTITUTION.

The Sixth Amendment guarantees the right to effective assistance of Counsel in criminal prosecutions. (Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668 (1984)).

TRIAL COUNSEL FAILED TO PRESENT EVIDENCE AT TRIAL.

A). Defense Counsel failed investigate and present "Dental Records" belonging to the petitioner. Witness Karen Nelson said on the witness stand that the Suspect was missing several teeth on the bottom row, and to the side of his mouth. The petitioner informed his attorney that upon his arrest he had no missing teeth. He informed his attorney that somehow someone has passed this information on to Karen Nelson. The petitioner then informed his attorney that "dental records" at the main County Jail, will show that he just recently had the teeth removed that the witness referred to. On the subject of the removal of petitioners teeth, He told his attorney that early September of 2001. "Western Dental" in Oakland California was unsuccessful in removing the two bottom row teeth because the petitioner had an immunity to novocaine. The dentist referred petitioner to an Oral Surgen. When the petitioner went to the

1 dentist department in the County Jail. He had the same problem of 2 not being able to respond to shots of novicaine. The petitioner was 3 told that he would be rescheduled pending the acquisition of his 4 dental records from "Western Dental". After the County Jail located 5 the dental records the petitioner had his lower, two side teeth removed 6 by the County Jail oral surgeon.

7 What petitioner is contending is that defense Counsel cannot 8 afford to disregard the dental records, because if you allow a witness 9 such as this to point out a distinguishing physical feature on a suspect 10 the jury will believe her. Witness Karen Nelson never mentioned the miss-11 ing teeth in the police report, identification Supplemental, or while giving 12 testimony at the "preliminary hearing". The exculpatory value of this 13 evidence is that it shows that petitioner could not have been the person 14 at the bank robbery because you have two sets of dental records by two 15 different agencies showing that the two teeth in question were naturally 16 attached to his jaw bone.

17 In (Strickland v. Washington, at [14], 2066); the Court establishes that the 18 "defense Counsel's actions are usually based, quite properly, on information 19 supplied by the defendant". In this case, the one time that Counsel was 20 able to speak with the petitioner before trial, could not really be seen 21 as an attorney visit, because even that one time Counsel told petitioner 22 that she could not discuss his case with him because she had not yet seen 23 and reviewed his file. Even though defense Counsel failed to investigate 24 prior to trial. And even though she may have been laboring under a 25 conflict of interest by failing to ask the trial court for a continuance 26 so that she may prepare for trial. The Supreme Court, under (Strickland, 27 at [14], 2066; In essence declares that defense Counsel should have acted 28 on the information concerning the dental records.

1 B). Defense Counsel failed to present trial evidence marked Defense 2 Exhibit-(LLL). This evidence is a photograph of a crack cocaine pipe and 3 white hard substance which appears to be rock cocaine. This photo is 4 taken showing the above items on a bedspread in the motel room of the 5 petitioner. Defense Counsel had this photo in a stack of other photos that 6 had obviously been given to her by the prosecution. The probative value of 7 evidence is that it establishes that officer Heussman lied on the trial 8 stand when he told the jury that he had found no drugs or contraband 9 on the petitioner that would justify arresting the petitioner when 10 he first made contact with him in his motel room. By using this to 11 impeach officer Heussman. It is likely to show the jury that if he lied 12 about what he did not find; or said he did not find. Then he can also 13 be telling a lie about what he said he did find. Mainly the gun he found 14 in the back of the motel building, and the white tank top T-shirt he 15 claimed to have found in petitioners car after he was arrested.
16 The contention here is that defense Counsel abandoned the adversarial 17 process by not offering evidence that would challenge the credibility of 18 the arresting officer. The (Strickland v. Washington, at 2064); Court has 19 established that Counsel has a duty to bring to bear such skill and knowledge 20 as will render the trial a reliable adversarial testing process. See (Powell v.
21 Alabama, 287 U.S. at 68-69, 53 S.Ct.

22 C). Defense Counsel failed to present evidence by Ford Motor Company. The 23 evidence was internet online information by the Ford Company stating 24 that their 1992 Ford Probe car was released only in the factory colors 25 of (black, white, and silver). And that there was no special metallic paint used 26 that would make the car appear to change colors under certain lighting. This 27 information was discovered by CO-Counsel trainee, Anne Winterman. But 28 it was rejected by lead Counsel Judith Browne.

III

PETITIONER WAS DENIED EFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL UNDER CALIFORNIA AND UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION

The Sixth Amendment guarantees the right to effective assistance of Counsel in criminal prosecutions. (Strickland v. Washington, 1984)

TRIAL COUNSEL FAILED TO IMPEACH. IN VIOLATION OF DEFENDANTS RIGHTS TO CONFRONTATION CLAUSE.

A). Defense Counsel failed to impeach officer Heussman's trial testimony that he never found anything on the petitioners person that would justify making an arrest of the petitioner upon his initial contact with him. As noted earlier in this Complaint; there is both, photo evidence, and an eye-witness that can prove that officer Heussman did find Contraband and could have placed petitioner under arrest. See sections; (I (A), and (II (B) of this report.

The petitioner is contending that defense Counsel had no tactical reason for failing to impeach officer Heussman. In (Gargle v. Mullin, 317 F.3d 1196, 1211 (10th Cir. 2003)), the Court held; "failure to investigate sources for impeachment," warranted presumption of prejudice."

B). Defense Counsel failed to impeach bank manager, Amelia Chellew. While testifying at trial Mrs. Chellew stated that after she attended the police line-up at Albany Police Dept. She left the police dept. by her

1 self and never spoke with any of her co-workers from the time she left 2 the police dept., until the hour or two later when she called back to the 3 police dept. to inform the investigator that she had made a mistake on 4 who she picked as the suspect of the bank robbery. She changed her 5 choice from line-up # (1); to line-up (5); which was the petitioner. Prior 6 to Mrs. Chellew taking the stand. Her co-worker, Evelyn Herrera; testified 7 that after the police line-up, herself and Mrs. Chellew left the police 8 station together, and that while the two of them were in the car; 9 Mrs. Herrera told Mrs. Chellew that she picked the wrong person in the 10 police line-up. She told Mrs. Chellew that line-up # (5) was the person 11 who robbed the bank.

12 The petitioner is contending that the information to impeach Mrs. Chellew 13 was already on the trial record at the time of her testimony. The defense 14 counsel totally abandoned the petitioners rights of "Confrontation Clause".
15 In (Ky v. Stincer, 482 U.S. 730, 737 (1987)), the Court held; "the Confrontation - 16 Right is designed to promote the truth-finding function of trial".

18 c). Defense Counsel failed to impeach witness Lesley Pulaski. On 19 the trial stand Mrs. Pulaski stated that she did not talk to the 911-20 dispatcher when the robbery was being reported. See trial record, (2212).
21 The petitioner then tells defense attorney that the witness is not telling 22 the truth. The petitioner gives defense attorney a one page computer 23 printout of the 911 call showing that Mrs. Pulaski had in fact spoke at 24 great lengths on the phone with the 911-dispatcher. The petitioner mentions 25 this 911 document on the trial record. See (RT-2310). Defense Counsel 26 suddenly remembers that she has a copy of the 911 recording on a 27 cassette tape. Marked in the trial as Defendant (Exhibit-XX). But because 28 defense Counsel never conducted pre-trial investigation or preparation; she

1 is Caught off guard by the fact that there is evidence that contradict
 2 Mrs. Pulaski's testimony. The record shows that the petitioner disagreed 3 with how his defense attorney wanted proceed with introducing this 4 evidence to the jury. Defense attorney proceeded with letting witness 5 pulaski listen to the 911 recording without the jury being present.
 6 The jury was brought back into the Courtroom and listened to witness 7 Pulaski explain that the whole thing was just a lapse of memory on her 8 part.

9 The Contention is that the defense attorney did not know how to use 10 witness Pulaski's prior 911 statements to impeach her trial testimony.
 11 By letting Mrs. Pulaski to first listen to the 911 recording outside of 12 the presence of the jury to refresh her memory. And then allow her to 13 go back in front of the jury and offer testimony about her lapse in memory, 14 amounted to defense attorney conducting damage control on behalf 15 of the prosecution. Exhibit-(a) of this Complaint is a transcribed copy 16 of Mrs. Pulaski's Conversation with the 911 dispatcher. It appears that 17 she gets on the phone on page #4, line-16, and remains [REDACTED] on the phone until 18 police arrive.

19 Each of these three witnesses have implicated the petitioner in a crime.
 20 All three have evidence against them that prove they lied on the trial stand.
 21 Defense counsel has shown a pattern of abandoning petitioners rights 22 of "Confrontation Clause", and "Adversarial Process". And these violations 23 have occurred under Federal and State law. See (Strickland v. Washington, 24 at, 2063). See (U.S. v. Cronie, 1984, 104 S.Ct. 2039, at; 2047). See (People v. Ledesma, 25 43 Cal. 3d 171, 729 P.2d 839; at 218[6] and 215 [4].) See (People v. Pope, 23 Cal. 3d 412; at 26 (424). In (Kimmelman v. Morrison, 1984, 104 S.Ct. 2039, at 2593); Justice Powell and 27 Rehnquist, Concurred: "right to effective assistance ensures right to contest charges, 28 and defendant has a valid claim when denied this opportunity, regardless."

STATES CONSTITUTION

The Sixth Amendment guarantees the right to effective assistance of Counsel in Criminal prosecutions. (Strickland v. Washington, 1984).

TRIAL COUNSEL FAILED TO SUPPRESS AND OBJECT TO EVIDENCE

A). Defense Counsel failed to object to white tank top T-Shirt being admitted into evidence without ever laying a foundation of where the T-Shirt came from and who discovered it. The T-shirt was introduced into evidence by the prosecutor, as (Peoples Exhibit-22). The T-shirt concerns Counts 12 and 13; where the Suspect was described wearing a dirty white tank top T-shirt.

The Contention here is that even after petitioner told defense attorney that the T-shirt was not his. Defense Counsel still failed to have the prosecution explain how the T-shirt is connected to the petitioner. Since there is nothing on the record or introduced to the jury concerning where the T-shirt came from; how can the petitioner contest this evidence in front of the jury. This is a piece of clothing that connects the petitioner to several crimes. A connection that was made without any kind of preliminary fact being established as to how you can make or ask the jury to make an assumption that the T-shirt belonged to the

1 Petitioner. This evidence was brought in off the streets without it 2 ever being photographed with all the other items discovered on the night 3 of petitioners arrest. Because defense Counsel failed to object or seek 4 suppression of the aforementioned evidence. The petitioner was not 5 able to contest the evidence, or cross-examine the finder of evidence.
6 This constitutes an abandonment of the adversarial process under 7 (Strickland v. Washington, 1984, at 2063), "A fair trial is one in which 8 evidence subject to adversarial testing is presented to an impartial 9 tribunal." The "Strickland" Court goes on to say: "Counsel has a duty 10 to bring to bear such skill and knowledge as will render the trial a 11 reliable adversarial process;" at 2064. The Court in (United States v. Cronin, 12 1984, 466 U.S. 648, 658-659 [104 S.Ct. 2039, 2046-2047]), states that whenever the 13 prosecutions case has not been subjected to a meaningful adversarial test-14 ing process the result of the trial is unreliable".

15 B). Defense Counsel failed to seek an instruction on lesser evidence 16 The prosecution introduced into evidence (Peoples Exhibit-8). It is a 17 photograph of a black canvass tote-bag found in petitioners car at the 18 time of his arrest. It was introduced by the prosecution because it looked 19 similar bag that was described in Counts 1 and 2 bank robbery. Prosecution 20 stated that she could not produce the actual bag because it was lost with 21 the petitioners car. The prosecution further stated that when a photo 22 of the black bag was taken by Inspector James Taranto of the D.A.'s 23 Office. See trial record, (RT-3320). No bank robbery charges were filed 24 at the time the photo was taken. But Inspector Taranto testified that 25 he took the pictures of the bag while petitioners car was still in police 26 impound on 4-12-02. See trial record, (RT-2125). On 12-17-01 petitioner 27 was formally charged in Oakland Municipal Court with the Counts 1 and 28 2 bank robberies. So the prosecution lied when she said no bank robberies

1 had been filed on petitioner by 4-12-02. After the bank robbery charges 2 were filed against the petitioner, he had attended Court dates on those 3 charges between 12-17-01, and 4-12-02. They were: (1-18-02), (1-29-02), 4 (2-26-02), and (3-21-02). What this clearly shows is that petitioner had 5 been formally charged with the robberies at the time the prosecution 6 had the actual black bag in their possession. After they photographed the 7 bag it was somehow lost.

8 The contention is that defense Counsel failed to have the jury instructed 9 that since prosecution had actual evidence in their possession; but chose to 10 present "lesser evidence". The lesser evidence can be viewed with doubt.

11 c). Defense Counsel failed to object under applicable or seek suppression 12 under applicable Law; concerning a tainted photo of petitioners car which 13 has been clearly photographed under false lighting to give the appearance 14 of a gold tint. The record showed that defense Counsel objected to the 15 showing of the photograph to the jury, by the prosecution. See trial 16 record, (RT-1806). But because defense Counsel never conducted any kind 17 of pretrial investigation. She was unsuccessful in correcting the injustice 18 and protecting her client the petitioner. Counsel failed to research the law 19 concerning this issue. In (People v. Slotum, 1975, 52 Cal. App 3d 867, 891-892, 20 125 Cal. Rptr. 422), the Court states; "The admissibility of a photograph or 21 motion picture is whether it fairly depicts the person, scene, item or event 22 it purports to portray." In (People v. Viaza, 1966, 244 Cal. App 2d 121, 126-127, 23 52 Cal. Rptr. 733), the Court states; "When a photograph or film is an impor-24 tant issue it must be shown that the photograph or film was taken 25 under conditions similar to those existing at the time of the event in 26 question." The vehicle in question was described in the conditions of daylight 27 outdoors, from two feet away. The prosecutions photo was taken inside of 28 the police impound warehouse where it was dark inside.

THE PROSECUTION ENGAGED IN MISCONDUCT AFFECTING THE JURORS VERDICT IN VIOLA- TION OF PETITIONERS 5th AND 14th AMENDMENT RIGHTS OF THE U.S. CONST- ITUTION DENYING PETITIONER THE RIGHT TO DUE PROCESS AND TO A FAIR TRIAL.

9 A). Prosecution took evidence out of the Courtroom, Showed it to 10 A witness in the hallway of the Courthouse, and then told the witness 11 that she would be having her identify that very jacket while on the 12 Witness stand. While being cross-examined by defense Counsel, witness 13 Sophia Marzocchi testified that the prosecution showed her "Peoples 14 (Exhibit-18)", a black leather jacket, and told her she would have her identify 15 it again inside the Courtroom. See trial record, (RT-646).

16 The contention here is that because the physical evidence in this trial 17 did not match petitioner. The circumstantial evidence would be the only 18 way to get a conviction. But when the prosecution breaks the "Chain of 19 Custody" by taking evidence out of the Courtroom. ■ Perjuring the 20 Witness by deliberately contaminating her identification of the evi-21 dence. And then offering the contaminated identification to the 22 judge and jury as though the witness was identifying the jacket 23 in relation to what she remembered from the day of the robbery. This 24 is bad because we don't know much of witness testimony was contam-25 inated by the prosecution in relation to evidence identification. Also, 26 in relation to Counts (3-4-5-6-7); no other victim identified petit-27 ioner in the police line-up. Mrs. Marzocchi was the only positive I.D. of 28 petitioner out of five victims. So in this situation, there is good

1 reason for the assumption of prejudice because Absent Counsel's effort 2 to perjur this witness testimony, there is no other evidence that weighs 3 heavily against the petitioner. The Court has stated:

4 "It is to much the habit of prosecuting
 5 officers to assume beforehand that a 6 defendant is guilty, and then expect to have 7 the established rules of evidence twisted, and 8 all the features of a fair trial distorted, in 9 order to secure a conviction. If a defendant 10 cannot be fairly convicted at all; and to hold 11 otherwise would be to provide ways and means 12 for the conviction of the innocent." (People v. Podwy's, 13 Supra, 6 Cal. App 2d, at pp. 72-73, 44 P.2d 377). Quoted 14 by, (People v. Pitts, 273 Cal. Rptr. 757, at 870, 223 Cal. App.
 15 3d 606 (Cal. App. 5th Dist. 1990).

16 Petitioner contends that the prosecution both, twisted rules of the 17 evidence by removing it from the courtroom to display in Courthouse 18 hallway, and distorted the trial by offering contaminated identifica-19 tion testimony to the judge and jury.

20 B). During closing arguement the prosecution inflamed the jury by 21 referring to the petitioner as acting like a "terrorist." See trial record, 22 (RT-3374, 3377). But what was even worst was the video projector she 23 used and had the word "Terrorist" in big bold letters on the screen.

24 The first contention is that the prosecution's characterization of the 25 petitioner acting like a terrorist assumes facts not in evidence. Secondly, 26 the suspect in these robberies not only robbed the store, but he also robbed 27 the customers as well. The prosecution uses two examples of the Suspe-28 ct's actions during the robbery to justify addressing petitioner as a terrorist.

1 The prosecution says that the Suspect always entered the establish-2 ments acting nice and polite, and then turned terrorist. She said the 3 Suspect always puts his victims in the back of the establishment. As 4 to these two methods of operation used by the Suspect, The petitioner 5 contends that for a robber to pretend to be a customer, or to gather 6 everyone together before ordering them to empty their purses. Though 7 it may be enough to establish as a Signature (M.O.), if a robber does 8 things the same way. This does not warrant calling the petitioner 9 a terrorist in nature. In the post (911) terrorist error. Any references 10 to someone as being associated with, or acting like a terrorist strikes 11 an immense amount of fear into people. Especially if that person is 12 an authority figure on the side of justice. This characterization of 13 the suspect/petitioner as possessing terrorist behavior was totally out 14 of context in relation to the charges. No jury will vote "not guilty" for 15 a defendant who has the word "Terrorist" right next to his name 16 during final argument. Especially if there is no objection by the judge 17 or the defense counsel. The Court states:

18 "The prosecution should reframe from argument which 19 would divert the jury from its duty to decide the case 20 on the evidence by injecting issues broader than the 21 guilt or innocence of the accused under the controlling 22 law." (United States v. Young, 470 U.S. 1, 105 S.Ct. 1038, at 1042, 23 (1985))

24 Also;

25 The average jury, in a greater or less degree, has confidence 26 that these obligations, which so plainly rest upon the pros-27 ecuting attorney will be faithfully observed. But improper 28 suggestions, insinuations, and especially, the assertions

Of personal knowledge are apt to carry much weight against the accused when they should properly carry none." (Berger v. United States, 295 U.S. 78, 55 S.Ct. 629, at 633).

By referring to the petitioner as behaving like a terrorist with her words and simultaneously with a wall projector. By doing this the prosecution introduced into the trial an issue that was monumentally broader than what the petitioner was charged with. And because the average jury person has faith in the prosecution as an officer of the court and advocate for the people. Prejudice from the result of prosecutions actions must be presumed to have had an irreversible effect on the jury and outcome. The Court has ruled in the following cases:

"Conviction reversed because prosecutors statements inflamed the jury, threatened defendants right to a fair trial, and were not mitigated by curative instructions." (US v. Weatherspoon, 410 F.3d 1142, 1152 (9th Cir. 2005))

Also;

"Prosecutions comparison to the defendant with Adolf Hitler was improper." (Allen v. Woodford, 395 F.3d, 979, 1016 (9th Cir. 2005))

Also;

"Prosecutor's description of defendant as a liar was improper because it constituted personal opinion regarding defendants credibility." (US v. Garcia Guizar, 160, F.3d 511, 520 (9th Cir. 1998))

1 c). Prosecution lost or destroyed petitioners vehicle, preventing 2 petitioner from proving his innocence on Counts (12-13). Witness 3 Jennifer Wiedner was a victim in Counts (12-13), in which she was 4 sexually assaulted during a robbery of her boyfriend's work-place. She 5 was the only one out of the two victims who were able to remember 6 specific details about the description of the suspects vehicle and 7 marks on his body. At trial Mrs. Wiedner testified that the car that 8 the suspect drove was gold in color and that it was a 1991 Ford Probe 9 because in High School her boyfriend had the exact car. See trial 10 record, (RT-1757). Mrs. Wiedner stated that she was absolutely sure 11 that suspects car was not silver in color. See (1828) of trial record.
12 The witness was shown photos of petitioners car taken on the night 13 of his arrest by crime scene investigators. They were marked, (Defense 14 Exhibits-QQ, and RR.) The witness said that the car in these photos 15 could not have been the car at the scene of the crime. See trial 16 record, (RT-1829, 1830). This was the first time on the record that it 17 was mentioned that the car was no longer in the police impound. See 18 trial record, (RT-1807). At this time there was no objection by the 19 defense counsel under the "Brady" rule. (Exhibit-1) of this complaint 20 is a request by the jury to see the actual car in person. The second 21 page of (Exhibit-1) of this complaint is another request by the 22 jury indicating that they cannot reach a unanimous decision on 23 counts (12-13). These are the counts concerning the car. The exhib-24 its show that on 8-6-03, at 10:25 AM, the jury asked to see the car 25 in person. And a few hours later at 1:50 PM, the jury announced 26 that they could not reach a unanimous decision on counts (12-13).
27 This shows us two things. One of which, it was a close case on 28 counts (12-13). And the color of the car is where they knew they

1 Could resolve the greatest issue concerning Counts (12-13). What the 2 prosecution did was have someone go to the police impound and photo-3 graph the car under some kind of yellow lamp to make it appear that 4 it had a gold or yellow glare. The (Peoples Exhibits-35,36) are those dist-
5 orted pictures. The photos of the car have a yellow glare on the top 6 of the car while the sides are much lighter. The whole warehouse 7 was completely dark and the picture is meant to assume that the 8 car had its own natural illumination. The prosecution had an 9 officer and an ■ investigator who testified that the car 10 has a tendency to look gold under certain lighting conditions.
11 Based on the facts mentioned so far concerning the car, there is a 12 sufficient amount of evidence that support the claim that prosecution 13 knew the exculpatory value of the car before it was lost from inside 14 the police impound. How does a vehicle get lost out of the police impound 15 along with other evidence that was left inside the car, like the black 16 bag in (Peoples Exhibit-8)? Looking at the trial evidence; (Peoples Exh-17 ibits-24,25,49,50), We can learn how important a role the car played in this 18 whole case. They are the (arrest reports, Daily Police Bulletin, Police Dept. Special 19 Bulletin, and Communications order). We learn that prior to petitioners arrest 20 there was "Bulletin" out for a 1991 Gold Ford Probe. A victim of a crime gave 21 the police a full description of the suspects vehicle. The arresting officer 22 saw a vehicle meeting the description of the "Daily Police Bulletin". The 23 officer went into the motel where the vehicle was parked and made 24 contact with the vehicle's owner. The arresting officer Heussman 25 testified on the stand in support of prosecutions theory that the 26 vehicle looks gold under certain lighting conditions. But on the same 27 night of the arrest while the suspect was driving away, Heussman 28 radio's all available units that suspect is fleeing in Silver 1991 Ford Probe.

1 The petitioner was arrested the day after Counts (12-13) occurred.
 2 The petitioner did not have the scars on his arm that the victim had 3 seen on the suspect. And the scars that the petitioner did have on his 4 arm the witness did not notice. Photos were taken of petitioners 5 arm prior to his arrest. Witness Wiedner never positively identified 6 petitioner in the line-up which was two days after the crime. The 7 petitioner was not wearing the same watch as the suspect wore the 8 day before. The witness said the suspect was clean shaven. But the 9 pictures taken of petitioner by police 24-hours later show petitioner 10 with a short afro, mustache, and beard. The photos taken of petitioner 11 are listed; (Peoples Exhibits - 9, 53, 58, 61, 62). The courts have stated:

12 "Exculpatory evidence is evidence the suppression of which 13 would undermine confidence in the outcome" (U.S. v Ruiz, 14 536 U.S. 622, 628 (2002) (quoting Kyles, 514 U.S. and at 435)).
 15

16 Not only did jury asked to see the car in person. Trial record also show 17 that the jury requested to see all of the photos of the car presented in 18 trial. Those exhibits were: (Peoples Exhibits - 35, 36, 57, 65), and (Defense 19 Exhibits - QQ, RR). See trial record, (RT- 3559).

20 The Court has also stated:

21 "Due Process is violated if: (1) defense requests suppressed 22 material; (2) Prosecution suppresses evidence favorable to 23 the defense upon request; (3) evidence is material to guilt 24 or punishment.) Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 87 (1963)

25 The petitioner contends that the vehicle was the difference between 26 innocence and guilt in this case. The prosecution introduced color 27 changing theory. But they made it impossible for the defense or jury to 28 test their theory against the actual evidence. Causing irreversable prejudice.

1 D). The prosecution interfered with the investigation of the 2 jury concerning the charge of "jury misconduct". After the verdict 3 in petitioners trial, the defense counsel, while talking with several 4 members of the jury. Heard jury members speak about how they, 5 out looking at cars on the streets were able to determine if they 6 could change colors. After hearing jury members talk about their 7 observations and investigations that were taking place outside of 8 the courthouse, using as evidence things that were not part of the 9 trial. The defense conceded that "jury misconduct" had occurred.
10 On 8-26-03 the court acknowledged receipt of defense counsel's 11 motion for jury information, and informed the prosecution that 12 she would have an opportunity responding to this. See (RT-3639, 3640).
13 On 9-4-03 the court acknowledged receiving the response filed by 14 the prosecution. Because the response by the prosecution was very 15 lengthy, the court and the defense needed time to read it. See (RT-3643)
16 On 10-31-03 the court acknowledged a contention by the defense
17 that while investigator Paul Perez of the Public Defenders Office 18 made contact with six jury members who informed Mr. Perez that 19 they had been contacted by the prosecution and told by the prose-20 cution that if the public defender contacts them, they are to call 21 the District Attorney for further instructions. See (RT-3648)
22 On 11-14-03 the court heard the impact that the prosecution's letter 23 had on the jury members that Mr. Perez was able to contact.
24 Juror #8 was angry with investigator Perez and stated that he had 25 received a letter from the District Attorney, and would rather speak 26 to the District attorney. See (RT-3670, 3672).
27 Juror #1 stated that he had been talk with the District Attorney 28 concerning some statements he made that may have been misconstrued.

1 See, (RT-3674).

2 Juror #11, Mr. Perez believed also told him that they had also recei-3 ved a letter from District Attorney. See, (RT-3677).

4 Jurors #9 and 12 told Mr. Perez that they had not received letter, 5 Juror #6 told Mr. Perez that they were not going to tell him if they 6 got a letter from District Attorney or not. The juror got angry with 7 him and threatened to call the District Attorney on him. See, 8 (RT-3678).

9 Out of the six people that Investigator Perez contacted, 10 only four had at that time received letters from District Attorney 11 and they all refused to talk with Mr. Perez.

12 The record indicates that the trial judge agreed that the 13 "Statute" gives the defense the right to make an independent 14 effort to contact the jurors. See, (RT-3660).

15 The contention is that the prosecution interfered with an 16 investigation into jury misconduct that had been cleared by 17 the trial court, and legal under the U.S., and California Cons-18 titution. The prosecution "mis-represented" the law when 19 she told those jurors to not talk with the Defense until 20 after they first contacted the District Attorney. Under the 21 "California Code of Civil Procedures" 237(b), 237(d), or 206(g). None 22 of these that the court cited on the record gives the prosecution, 23 prosecuting a case the right to instruct the jury not to talk with 24 defense attorney's investigating jury misconduct. This is the work 25 of a prosecutor who has established a pattern of disregard for 26 the "rules of the court", as well as "judicial procedure." The court filed 27 a copy of the letter that the prosecution sent to the jurors.
28 See, (RT-3648).

1 The Court in (Greer v. Miller, 483 U.S. 756, 97 L.Ed 2d 618, 107 S.Ct. 3102, at 3109) 2 "that prosecutorial misconduct may so infect the trial with unfairness 3 as to make the resulting conviction a denial of due process". Quoting 4 (Donnelly v. De Christoforo, 416 U.S. 637, 643, 94 S.Ct. 1868, 1871, 40 L.Ed 2d 431
 5 (1974), When you look at all four claims of misconduct and the impact 6 they each had on the trial. One might wonder how it is that they 7 were never challenged and objected to. It is because the level of 8 ineffective assistance of counsel matched the gross level of the 9 prosecutorial misconduct. While discussing his dissenting opinion 10 in Strickland v. Washington, Justice Marshall spoke about how an 11 ineffective defense counsel can make injuries to the client seem 12 as though they never happened.

13 "It is often very difficult to tell whether a defendant 14 convicted after a trial in which he was ineffectively 15 represented would have fared better if his lawyer would 16 have been competent. Evidence of injury to a defendant 17 may be missing from the record precisely because of the 18 incompetence of defense counsel." (Strickland, at 2076)

19 I believe that the jury came into the trial with the desire and 20 intention to render its findings after witnessing a fair adversarial 21 process. But when they witness the effects of a prosecutor showing 22 evidence to witnesses outside of the courtroom. Evidence that they 23 should be viewing missing. Listening to the prosecutor argue that 24 they will be deliberating on <sup>Man with</sup>  terrorist behavior and tendencies.
 25 The jury in this case became prejudice as the result of a prosecutor 26 who was out of control, a judge who did nothing to keep prosecutorial 27 misconduct to a minimum; and a defense attorney who just came in at 28 the last moment to push this trial through the motions.

VI

JURORS COMMITTED MISCONDUCT
By CONDUCTING THEIR OWN INVE-STIGATIONS OUTSIDE OF THE COURT AND FOR BRINGING INTO THE TRIAL EVIDENCE NOT PRESENTED BY THE COURT, RESULTING IN AN UNFAIR TRIAL FOR DEFENDANT.

11 A). Jury foreperson David Le Claire brought into the deliberations 12 outside information to influence the other jurors. While being 13 interviewed by Investigator Paul Perez. Juror #4, Stacy Ramirez said 14 that during their deliberations foreperson Le Claire told the jury that 15 he saw a parked car at a Bart parking lot which was either gold or 16 silver in color and spent some time looking at it. He went on to tell 17 the jury that based on that observation he was convinced that gold 18 and silver looked similar under certain lighting conditions. He went 19 on to tell the rest of the jury that this observation made him feel 20 warm and fuzzy inside about his decision. See (Exhibit-3).

21 The Contention here is that Mr. Le Claire used outside information 22 to argue his siding with the prosecution in that the petitioners 23 silver car could have looked gold to the victim. Being that Le Claire 24 was acting as the jury foreperson we can assume that the impact 25 of his judgement was respected by the other jurors.

26 B). Juror James Curtis brought into the trial information 27 that he solicited from outside sources. Mr. Curtis told the 28 jury that while he was at a paint shop on personal business,

1 he inquired about does the colors gold and silver sometimes get a little 2 mistaken for each other. Juror Ramirez stated that she did not at 3 this moment remember word for word what answer James Curtis 4 said he got from the employee at the paint store, but the opinion 5 he shared with the jury was unfavorable to the defendant. See, 6 (Exhibit-3).

7 The contention here is that Juror James Curtis went against 8 the judge's "Instructions" in two accounts:

9 1). He conducted an independent experiment or investigation for the 10 purposes of discovering a fact. And he brought his findings back 11 and shared them with the jury.

12 2). He also broke the instruction about not conversing with 13 anyone on any subject connected with the trial. See (RT-90).

14 The Court has stated: "Any verdict issued as a result of 15 extraneous influences prejudice the 16 defendant and once demonstrated 17 the defendant is entitled to a new 18 trial." (Remmer v. United States, 347 19 U.S. 227, 229, (1954))

20 The lower courts have stated:

21 "A new trial is required if there is a substantial 22 likelihood of the vote of one or more jurors was 23 influenced by exposure to prejudicial matters 24 outside the trial record." (In re Carpenter, 1995, 25 9 Cal. 4th 634, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 665, 889 P.2d 985). Also; 26 (People v. Holloway, 1990, 50 Cal. 3d 1098, 1108-1110, 269 27 Cal. 530, 790 P.2d 1327).

1 And to touch more specifically on the acts of outside investigations
2 the Courts have stated:

3 "It is misconduct for jurors to conduct 4 investigations independent of the trial
5 evidence." (People v. Conkling, 1986, 111 Cal.
6 616, 828). (People v. Castro, 1986, 184 Cal. App.
7 3d 849, 853).

8 C). Juror Sharon Layden brought into the jury deliberations her 9 past knowledge of Sexual assault victims, and offered it as "Expert 10 Testimony." Juror Ramirez stated that, Juror Sharon Layden 11 told the jury that she either had a friend or knew someone 12 who worked in a clinic that dealt with sexual assaults and 13 that she had some knowledge in that area. See, (Exhibit-3).
14 The first contention is that the juror is claiming to possess 15 a knowledge about sexual assault; but never mentions this when 16 asked how she feels about sitting on a jury in a case involving a 17 sexual assault. If during the jury deliberations she qualifies her 18 self as one who has knowledge and or experience concerning 19 sexual assaults. She just didn't forget she had this knowledge 20 during the "voir dire" process. She knew she had this knowledge 21 all along. And she was so confident in her knowledge of sexual 22 assaults that she asked the jury to trust her judgement on the 23 issue.

24 The petitioner further contends that even absent an evident-25 uary hearing. It is not hard to conclude that the information 26 she gave to the jury regarding sexual assaults prejudiced the 27 defendant. Like allowing the jury to hear victim impact testimony 28 before they are sent off to deliberate.

1 The High Court has stated:

2 "To establish reversible error in cases involving 3 inadvertent nondisclosure, a <sup>defendant</sup> must demonstrate 4 that a correct response would have created a valid
5 basis for a challenge of cause." (McDonough Power
6 Equip. v. Greenwood, 464 U.S. 548, 555, 556, (1984))

7 8 The fact that juror Sharon Layden appealed to the jury that she 9 possessed knowledge about sexual assaults, and that her knowledge 10 is not just personal opinion. Her knowledge is based on information 11 originates from a clinic that deals with the actual sexual assault.
12 How extensive and reliable her knowledge is does not give her the 13 right to present it to the jury during deliberations. There is a con-14 flict of interest because knowledge about the effects that sexual 15 assaults have on the victim is not common every day information.
16 She is biased because she has an indirect connection to the victim.
17 By asking the jury to accept that she has knowledge concerning 18 sexual assault victims, she is in fact asking the jury to accept 19 the fact that she has a special connection to the victim or the 20 crime that they are deciding upon. Juror Ramirez did not indicate 21 that the jury rejected any of Juror Layden's information about 22 sexual assault victims, so we can assume that it was accepted into 23 the deliberation process.

24 The lower courts have stated:

25 "Any showing of actual juror bias requires a 26 new trial and the court need not determine the 27 effect of such bias on the verdict because, under 28 such circumstances, the error cannot be harmless." See,

(Dyer v. Calderon, 151 F.3d 970, 973 n.2 (9th Cir. 1998))

See Also;

"New trial required because juror admitted during deliberations to 7 years of experience with explosives and did not speak up during Voir dire" (US v. St. Clair, 855 F.2d 518, 522-23 (8th Cir. 1988)).

See Also;

"New trial required because juror deliberately failed to disclose abusive family situation. In a case where woman killed husband claiming to protect herself and kids from abuse" (Burton v. Johnson, 948 F.2d 1150, 1158-59 (10th Cir. 1991))

Juror Sharon Layden abandoned the jury instruction when she entered into the jury deliberations and asked her fellow jurors to accept her knowledge of sexual assault victims as evidence.
See jury instructions:

"You must not be influenced by sentiment, Conjecture, sympathy, passion, prejudice, public opinion or public safety." see (RT-89)

VIIDEFENSE COUNSEL FAILED TO INVESTIGATE JURY MISCONDUCT, AND DENIED PETITIONER HIS RIGHT TO TRIAL OF IMPARTIAL JUROR'S.

3
4
5
6
7
8 In the previous section on jury misconduct much of the nature
9 of the misconduct has already been covered. The petitioner wishes 10 to narrate key points instead of covering the whole five month or-11 deal.

12 Defense Counsel files a motion for jury information in regards 13 to interviewing jurors for misconduct. The reason for this motion 14 for jury information is because the defense Counsel shredded all 15 the jury information after the jury had been empanelled. Defense 16 Counsel went on to say that she did not write down full names of 17 of jurors. Only last names, cities, and age. See, (RT-3682, 3683). This 18 information did not come before the Court until 11-14-03. Basically, 19 every since 8-7-03 the defense had kept quiet about only having 20 the last names to track the jurors down, because they did not want 21 to admit to destroying all the jury information. The prosecution 22 expressed discomfort in the fact that defense Counsel destroyed 23 information and to so long to come clean about it. See (RT-3722).
24 After two months of looking for the jurors, the Court concluded 25 that the defense has not kept up with the "statute" as far as 26 making an independent effort to locate the jurors, see, (RT-3660) 27 The Court agreed to give the defense more time to try and locate 28 the jurors. See, (3662-63).

1 The Case returned back to Court two weeks later. After 2 having Investigator Paul Perez take the stand and testify
3 concerning his attempt to locate the jurors. The Court came 4 to the conclusion that Mr. Perez's attempts to locate the jury 5 was a disaster. See, (RT-3663) through (RT-3737). The judge 6 made it clear that he wanted to make sure that petitioner, due to 7 the grave nature of his punishment, is given every chance to locate 8 juror's. See, (3720), (3724). Moments later the Court gave what 9 would be its last concern about defense Counsel's obligation 10 to ensuring her client receive a fair trial.

11 The Court: Take the last phrase: "finding as many 12 people as we could." Are you satisfied, in 13 [REDACTED] representing Mr. Davis, that your 14 office has provided the best efforts 15 that it can? You didn't come back and 16 ask me for their first names. see, (RT-3726)

18 The Court then told defense to contact whoever they could, 19 and that then the Court would decide if it would then send 20 letters to the other jurors. See, (3732). The defense then came 21 out of nowhere inquiring about setting a sentencing date. But 22 the Court responded that if defense motion is granted there 23 may be no need for worrying about a sentencing date. See (3733, 34).
24 At this point what we have is a trial judge that is clearly a bit 25 worried about a defendant who is not getting the constitution-26 al legal assistance that is due him. And on the other hand we 27 have a defense Counsel who wants this trial to end as soon as 28 possible. What happens next confirms these conclusions.

1 What happens now is defense Counsel gets tired of pretending
2 to represent petitioner and starts hinting to the Court that it 3 is time to get the petitioner sentenced.

4 Defense Counsel:

5 "And whether I do or don't get the papers in 6 by the 8th, the sentencing could go forward in 7 the afternoon of -- Well, I guess in the after-8 noon of prior to the 19th? See, (RT-3735).

9 The Court:

10 "We will figure out a date," see, (RT-3735)

11 Defense Counsel:

12 "We could do that now, though, so she could 13 give them the date except for, you know, 14 and be able to tell them she could call it 15 off by the 8th, if I didn't file any papers."
16 See, (RT-3735).

17
18 The Court and the defense are on two different pages. The judge 19 has told the defense Counsel that neither her nor the investiga-20 tor Paul Perez has satisfied the "statute" concerning investigating 21 the jurors concerning juror misconduct. The judge wants defense 22 Counsel to locate who they can of the jurors, and he will help with 23 the rest. So this next court date is to see if the defense can make 24 enough of a claim to satisfy the "Civil Code of Procedures Statute", 25 so that he can call the jurors back and get their testimony.
26 But the defense Counsel is practically begging the Court to set 27 a sentencing date for her client. She is telling the prosecution 28 to get the victims ready to give impact testimony.

1 When she says; "in the afternoon prior to the 19th." She's talk-
2 ing about the very next court date. But she doesn't want her 3 client to pick up on how blatant she is being about not giving 4 her client the rights that the court has been trying to get 5 her to perform.

6 When she says; "She could give them the date except for, you 7 know." She's under the radar again trying to have the judge arrange 8 for the prosecution to have the victims on stand by.

9 This defense counsel destroys the jury information in the 10 very beginning of the trial. She sends her investigator out with 11 only last names to locate jurors. Once the judge admonishes 12 the investigator and defense counsel for not doing their jobs.
13 The court asks them to start again, but with the help of the 14 court. Defense counsel basically says, "I don't have to investigate 15 if I don't choose to. Unfortunately for the defendant; this 16 is just the post-trial disaster. The actual trial performance 17 of the defence counsel was much worse, and the prejudice was 18 much more severe.

DEFENSE COUNSEL FAILED TO CONDUCT PRETRIAL INVESTIGATION AND PREPARATION, ALSO LABORING UNDER CONFLICT OF INTEREST RESULTING IN DENIAL OF PETITIONERS RIGHT TO A FAIR TRIAL.

On March 18, 2003. Petitioner received a June 2, 2003 trial date. In between the trial date the petitioner then receives a visit from defense counsel Judith Browne from the Public Defenders Office. The visit was in April, 2003. During the visit, attorney Browne stated that she could not discuss my case with me because she had not yet reviewed my file. The petitioner never heard from Mrs. Browne until the first day of trial.

A). Defense Counsel did not have line-up cards for the two bank robberies that were never filed against petitioner. Nor did defense counsel ever know that petitioner was in line-up for two bank robberies but was not picked or identified by any of the banks employee's who attended the line-up. It was in the middle of trial while petitioner was going through evidence that he had received from his attorney who had been assigned to his case for the past year. Public Defender Maxine Fassulis. Petitioner handed attorney Browne the copies of the line-up and asked her if she could use them in her argument.

1. Defense Counsel filed a motion to get access to the names and addresses of the bank employees. The motion was denied, See (RT-2235-55). The contention is that this situation is the beginning of a trail of information that establishes that defense Counsel knew very little about the case that she was representing. Had defense Counsel conducted a pretrial investigation, she could have contacted the bank employees herself and interviewed them as witnesses concerning the integrity of the police line-up. And for the purpose of using them to raise doubt concerning counts 1 and 2 in petitioner case. If the petitioner looked similar to the other person who robbed the other <sup>two</sup> banks then maybe that person robbed the bank that petitioner is charged with.

12 B). The defense Counsel did not have the 911-printout for the 13 Ovation Clothing robbery. And she did not listen to the cassette 14 recording of the 911 phone call prior to trial. Witness Leslie Pulaski 15 testified that she never spoke on the phone to the 911 operator. 16 See, (RT-2212). Petitioner had a printout provided to him by his 17 former Counsel that attorney Browne did not have. Petitioner then 18 produced the printout which led to defense attorney Browne bringing 19 into evidence Defendant (Exhibit-XX). Which is the 911 tape. Once 20 the petitioner showed attorney Browne the 911 printout that showed 21 Leslie Pulaski had in fact spoke on the phone to the 911 operator. 22 Attorney Browne could not impeach Mrs. Pulaski because she was 23 not prepared. (Exhibit-2) shows that Mrs. Pulaski did most of the 24 talking on the phone.

25 The contention is that the defense Counsel had evidence that she 26 failed to review prior to trial. Her client, the petitioner, had to tell 27 her that the evidence was contrary to the witnesses testimony. 28 Petitioner went on the record submitting the printout. See, (2310).

1 C). The Defense Counsel did not have investigators report
2 from a video line-up that witness Sophie Devries attended. It 3 was not until the witness was on the stand that the petitioner 4 informed his attorney that he had a report with statements 5 by the witness. The report was entered into evidence at that 6 very moment as Defendant (Exhibit-DD). See, (RT-1128). Once 7 again, the defense Counsel has a witness on the stand and does 8 not know what prior statements that witness has made.
9 The report stated that after witness DeVries selected petit-10 ioner in the line-up, she asked the investigator did she pick 11 the right person. As the defense, you definitely want to follow 12 up on the fact that a witness had doubts after identifying the 13 petitioner. You can argue that the witnesses doubt was "reasonable 14 doubt." The record shows that the defense did nothing to raise 15 the doubt issue. See, (RT-1124). But on re-direct, the prosecutor 16 took the steam out of Mrs. Devries statements by being the one 17 to introduce them to the jury as subtle remarks. See, (RT-1127-28).

18 D). The defense Counsel did not know that the petitioners car 19 had been lost from the police impound. Had the defense Counsel 20 conducted an investigation prior to trial. There was good cause 21 for sanctions against the prosecution for destroying the most 22 important evidence concerning counts (12 and 13).

23 E). Defense Counsel failed to file a pretrial motion to sever 24 charges. During the instructions discussion the trial judge told 25 the defense Counsel that by failing to file a pretrial severance 26 motion, the defense may have waived her right to object now 27 that the jury has heard all the evidence. See, (RT-3219). Defense 28 Counsel suggested that she could correct her mistake by giving

1 an instruction to the jury telling them not to lessen the bur-2 den of looking at the evidence in each count; simply because four 3 occurrences are charged. See, (RT-3220). The petitioner was charged 4 with 14 counts consisting of four robbery locations: A clothing
5 store. A perfume store. A bank robbery. A deli robbery with a 6 forced oral copulation.

7 The main contention is a failure to protect petitioner from a 8 jury inflamed and influenced by the sexual assault. The record did 9 reflect that it was ineffective assistance of Counsel. See (RT-3219)

10 F). Defense Counsel's failure to investigate prior to trial affected 11 ability of Counsel to be familiar with which victims belonged 12 to what crime scenes. During Counsel's final argument she 13 jumped from one crime scene to the next, without even knowing 14 it. She got so entangled in her mistakes that the jury found the 15 whole thing hard to bare. Jury members started making all 16 kinds of movements and gestures to let her know that she 17 was lost. One of the jury members spoke up and was then 18 admonished by the judge not to give input. It was clear to the 19 jury members that the defense Counsel was not prepared to try this 20 case. And therefore her argument lacked the credibility of a skilled 21 professional and adversary. At one point in her closing arguments 22 the defense told the jury: "You guys stop me". See, (RT-3505).

23 The contention is that the jury cannot trust an attorney who 24 does not care enough about their client, or their duties, to prepare 25 and learn the facts about her case. You cannot ask the jury to stop 26 you when you make a mistake, and still expect that same jury to 27 accept the rationale of your argument. When an attorney stops being 28 a reliable advocate, they stop being an attorney.

1 G). Defense Counsel labored under a Conflict of interest. While 2 the petitioner contends that much of defense counsel's failures 3 were do to her own negligence. The petitioner also believes the 4 defense counsel knowingly tried this case under the Conflict of 5 the Public Defenders office substitution of counsel right before 6 trial; and the Court wanting to move this case forward simply 7 because they had an available courtroom. These two points argued 8 by the petitioner on the record. June 2, 2003 Dept. 11, p#6,7.

9 The contention is that defense counsel had no reasonable chance 10 of giving petitioner the assistance required under the U.S. and the 11 California Constitution. Defense counsel's failure to investigate 12 and prepare was but one of the effects the conflict of interest 13 had on the overall unfairness of the trial. Because counsel had 14 not been able to see or review petitioners file prior to that one 15 visit they had before trial. Defense counsel felt there was no need 16 to talk about the case until she reviewed his case file. So that one 17 attorney and client visit was all introduction and non-legal. Petitioner 18 said that attorney asked him no legal questions. see, (6-2-03, Dept. 11, p.6).

19 This case involved (32- witnesses), (3 different law enforcement agencies), 20 (14 counts-13 victims), (5-crimescenes), (155-pieces of evidence entered) 21 How is it possible to appear on the very first day of trial, never having 22 appeared on behalf of the petitioner, and never having had one pre-trial 23 discussion with the petitioner about the case or the facts. Defense 24 counsel's failure to seek a "continuance" for time to investigate, and to 25 prepare. Constitutes a knowingly participation in a Conflict of Interest.

26 If we go back to a question the Court put forth to defense counsel.
 27 "Are you satisfied, in representing Mr. Davis, that your office has 28 provided the best efforts that it can"? See, (RT-3726)

1 These words by the Court reflects the sentiment of the whole trial.
2 The petitioner did not receive the efforts that are consistent with 3 a diligent and competent trial attorney. The Courts have stated:

4 "A defense attorney is in the best position 5 to determine when a conflict exists, and 6 that he or she has an ethical obligation to 7 advise the court of any problems." (Mickens
8 V. Taylor, 535 U.S. 162, 122 S.Ct. 1237, at 1240)
9 Quoting; (Holloway V. Arkansas, 435 U.S. 475)

10 Also;

11 "The right to assistance of counsel is not 12 for its own sake; but because of the effect 13 it has on the ability of the accused to receive a fair trial." (Mickens V. Taylor) Quoting 14 (United States V. Cronic, 466 U.S. 648, at 658)
15 It follows from this that the assistance
16 which ineffective in preserving fairness
17 does not meet the constitutional mandate, 18 see (Strickland V. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, at 685-686).
19

20 The petitioner contends that this trial contained too many facts 21 and questions of law to go into it without a pretrial investigation.
22 The trial was a disaster from beginning to end. Even though the 23 poor performance of defense counsel is evident everywhere. And there 24 is no reason for a lot of the things she did, and did not do. The effect 25 of her laboring under a conflict of interest can still be seen by the 26 fact that there was so much about this case that she did not know.
27

CUMULATIVE EFFECT OF ERRORS
DEPRIVED PETITIONER OF HIS 5th, 6th, AND 14th AMENDMENT RIGHTS

"Our decision to grant relief on ineffective assistance ground is a function of the prejudice flowing from all of Counsel's deficient performance -- as Strickland directs it to be." See (Strickland 466 U.S., at 694, 696.) Quoted by; (Gargle v. Mullin, 317 F.3d 1196, at 1212).

The Cumulative Errors Are AS Follows:

1) The fact that this case consisted of; (14-Counts), (13-Victims), (5-Crimescenes), (32-Witnesses), (3-different law enforcement agencies), (155-pieces of evidence entered into trial). No jury would find it reasonable for a defense Counsel to face the above conditions, when appearing on the first day of trial, and never having discussed the case or the facts with the petitioner.

The Strickland Court ruled that much of Counsel's decisions throughout the whole trial is based on conversations and information that is obtained from the defendant. See, (Strickland at 104, 5.21 2066).

2) Defense Counsel was never able to overcome her failure to prepare and investigate. Because at the end of the trial during Counsel's final argument she still had trouble remembering the facts and details of the case. At one point she told the jury to stop her whenever she makes an error. See, (VIII-(F)). It was unprofessional and judicially unethical for a defense Counsel to ask a jury to help her do something that she has trained to do under the State Bar Assoc.

3) The defense Counsel violated petitioners rights to observe the "Confrontation Clause" on multiple grounds and issues. See, (II-(A)(B)(C)), and (III-(A)(B)(C)).

4) The defense Counsel violated petitioners rights to observe the "Compulsory Process Clause" on multiple grounds and issues. See, (I-(A)(B)(C)(D)).

5) The "Adversarial Process" is the main premise behind the trial proceedings. And if that process is one-sided, The result of proceeding cannot be counted ~~as~~ fair or truthful when we have heard only one side of the story. A trial where there is the "People" and no "Defendant" is no trial at all.

In this case defense Counsel failed to act prior to trial by not investigating or seeking a continuance. Defense Counsel failed to act during trial on a wide multitude of issues and failed to remember in her closing arguments, the facts about the case that had been already thoroughly discussed throughout the trial. Defense Counsel failed to act when the Court admonished her over five times during the post-verdict investigation, during the jury misconduct issues.

6) The petitioner suffered a number of Constitutional errors as the result of prosecutorial misconduct. Each one rising to a level of prejudice that made it nearly impossible for a jury to judge correctly or even act correctly.

7) The petitioner suffered a number of Constitutional errors at the hands of a jury that conducted outside investigations for the purpose of advocating the case of the prosecution. Each juror in their own way, brought into the trial, an evidentiary conclusion of their own and so infected the other jurors and the verdict.

1 8). The petitioners Constitutional rights were assaulted by all
2 parties. The (defense Counsel), (Prosecution), (Jury), and by a Court 3 who allowed prosecution and jury misconduct to go unchecked.
4 The prejudice suffered by the petitioner was monumental in the 5 sense that a multitude of Constitutional error resulted. The High 6 Courts have concluded that:

7 "The defendants liberty depends on his ability to 8 present his case in the face of the intricate aspects 9 of the law and the advocacy of the public prosecutor.
10 A criminal [REDACTED] trial is thus not conducted in accord 11 with due process of law unless the defendant has 12 Counsel to represent him." (Evitts v. Lucey, 469 U.S. 387 13 83 L.Ed. 2d 821, at 835 (1985). Quoting, (United States v.
14 Ash, 413 U.S. 300, at 309.).

15 Also;

16 "Counsel has a duty to bring to bear such skill and 17 knowledge as will render the trial a reliable adver-18 sarial testing process."
19 And the benchmark for judging ineffectiveness
20 must be whether Counsel's conduct so undermined 21 the proper function of the adversarial process that 22 the trial cannot be relied upon as having just results.
23 (Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 104 S.Ct., at 2064.)

OF HIS UNFORFEITED CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHT OF SELF-REPRESENTATION.

On June 2, 2003, the petitioner asked the Court to accept his motion to go (Pro-Se) Self-Representation. The Court asked the petitioner if he was ready to proceed at this time (Pro-Se). The petitioner stated that he would need 90-days to prepare. The Court dismissed petitioners request as untimely. The Appellate Court agreed with the trial Court that the petitioner failed to file motion within a reasonable amount of time prior to trial. The appellate Court argues that from the day the trial was set, March 18, 2003, until the day of trial on June 2, 2003, the petitioner never notified the Court, or expressed to defense Counsel his desire to represent himself.

The petitioner contends that neither one of these issues, had he done them, would have made a difference. Because the Court did not inquire about petitioner mentioning desire to go pro-se after the trial date was set, or did petitioner try to write the Court after the trial date was set. The Court did not ask the petitioner if he tried to notify anyone that he wanted to go pro-se once he found out that a trial date had been set. There was no inquiry what so ever, by the Court to determine my reasons for not requesting to go pro-se earlier.

1 There were only two issues the Court addressed concerning 2 petitioners denial of self-representation. The first was that 3 there was a trial courtroom available, and my case is scheduled 4 to go in there. And Secondly, the motion is untimely, and 5 therefore denied.

6 What has been lost in all this is the petitioners reasons for 7 wanting to go (pro-se), and why petitioner never notified the 8 Court earlier that he wanted to go (pro-se). The petitioner had 9 a very strained and unbearable relationship with his original 10 defense attorney Maxine Fassulis of the Oakland Public Defenders 11 Office. On May 21, 2002, at the beginning of petitioners "Preliminary 12 Hearing". The petitioner had a "Marsden Hearing" to remove defense 13 Counsel off of his case. The Court denied petitioners request and 14 proceeded with the preliminary hearing. From that point forward 15 there was tension between petitioner and attorney Fassulis. The Court 16 records noted that petitioner had not been brought into Courtroom 17 for seven months prior to trial. His last appearance in open Court was 18 November 13, 2002 (CT-378). He was never brought into the Courtroom 19 on, December 18, 2002 (CT-381), January 23, 2003 (CT-384), March 18, 2003 20 (CT-387). It was on March 18, 2003 that the case was set for trial 21 on June 2, 2003 (CT-387).

22 Petitioner told his attorney, Mrs. Fassulis, that he was going 23 to renew his Marsden motion for relief of Counsel in Superior 24 Court. The attorney told the petitioner the Court would hold him 25 in Contempt and not allow him to be present in his own trial if he 26 asked for a Marsden hearing in Superior Court. So attorney Fassulis 27 never allowed petitioner to come to open Court. Petitioner sent 28 several complaints to the Public Def. Office that were never answered.

1 On March 17, 2003 the petitioner told his attorney that 2 he would be submitting a motion for (Pro-Se) self-represent-3 ation on the following day, which would be his March 18, 2003 4 court date. Three things followed: 1) The petitioner was never 5 brought into open court. 2) A trial date was set without him ever 6 knowing; and 3) Attorney Maxine Fassulis was taken off his case.
 7 What is important to note is that not only was petitioner never 8 brought into the courtroom on March 18, 2003. The whole matter 9 was never reported on the record. (CT-387) The contention is that 10 this is not just UnConstitutional. But corrupt as well. Petitioner 11 was intentionally held out of court for seven months, and then 12 blind-sided.

13 The appellate Court in their opinion cited:

14 "For example, a defendant should not be 15 permitted to [REDACTED] wait until the day preceding 16 of trial before he moves to represent himself 17 and request a continuance in order to prepare 18 for trial without some showing of reasonable 19 cause for the lateness of the request." See (P. 5-[14] 20 of appellate denial.) Quoting (People v. Windham, 1977, 19 21 Cal.3d at 128 n. 5.)

22 But when we look closely at the facts of the petitioners case, 23 there is no way possible to miss the fact that petitioner was 24 being denied the opportunity to be present in court. The appellate 25 Court has not practiced or applied the very standard that it has 26 advocated. It is quite clear that the petitioner had a "reasonable 27 cause" for the lateness of his request to go (Pro-se).
 28

1 Its not true that petitioners newly appointed Counsel, Judith 2 Browne, spoke with petitioner about his case for several hours
3 prior to his trial date. Petitioner Stated on the record on June 2, 4 2003, that attorney Judith Browne had not spoke about the case
5 with him on that one visit before the trial because Mrs. Browne
6 said she had not yet reviewed or received his file. After the way 7 the Public Defenders Offize had treated the petitioner, he had 8 no words for nobody but the Court. The visit with Mrs. Browne 9 was a matter of 10-minutes or less. Not several hours as stated 10 in the appellate's opinion. The 50-year plea bargain by the Court 11 on the day of trial was not the reason petitioner wanted or 12 decided to go (Pro-se). The petitioner was offered the one 13 time deal on the spot. The letter from attorney Fassulis did 14 not mention a 50-year deal. The new attorney Mrs. Browne did 15 not come with the 50-year deal on her visit with petitioner.
16 There is no record of a deal prior to the first day of trial.
17 The petitioner entered the Courtroom for the first time in 18 Seven months with his motion filled out and signed.

19 How, then, does one properly characterize a Faretta motion 20 on the day set for trial, where trial has not been assigned, where 21 the defendant has offered a compelling explanation for its 22 timing, and where there is nothing in the record to support a 23 finding of a dilatory intent. The petitioner can not be said to 24 have "forfeited" his right of self-representation, where he never 25 before had an adequate opportunity previously to assert it.

26 The opinion by the appellate Court of Appeals does not address 27 whether the petitioners circumstances constituted a "showing 28 of reasonable cause for the lateness of the request."

1 "The language and spirit of the Sixth Amendment
2 Contemplate that Counsel, like the other defense 3 tools guaranteed by the Amendment, shall be an 4 aid to a willing defendant-- not an organ of 5 state interposed between an unwilling defen-
6 dant and his right to defend himself personally.
7 To thrust Counsel upon the accused, against 8 his considered wish, thus violates the logic
9 of the Amendment. In such a case, Counsel
10 is not an assistant, but a master; and the right 11 to make a defense is stripped of the personal 12 character upon which the Amendment insists."
13 (Faretta v. California, 1975, 422 U.S. 806, at 820)
14

15 The final contention of this issue is that the trial Court 16 allowed attorney Fassulis to conduct affairs without the petiti-17 oner present in court. This was done over and over until the judge 18 and the attorney Fassulis performed the final blow. Which was a 19 trial setting date of June 2, 2003. But the hearing was conducted 20 without the petitioner present in court, and the whole proceeding 21 was conducted off the record. The Court of Appeals have overlooked 22 these facts. And by doing so have allowed the petitioner to suffer 23 a Constitutional denial.
25
26 27 28

XI

PETITIONERS FOURTEENTH AMEND-MENT DUE PROCESS AND EQUAL PRO-TECTION RIGHTS WERE VIOLATED
DEPRIVING HIM THE RIGHT TO ASSERT
HIS RIGHT TO SELF-REPRESENTATION.

On many occasions when the petitioners case was on the Court calendar, he was not brought into the Courtroom. And on March 18, 2003, when the petitioners trial date was set, not only was petitioner not brought out to the Courtroom, but the whole matter was conducted off the record.

However, penal code Section 977, subdivision (b) provides in relevant part:

(b) In all cases in which a felony is charged, the accused must be present at the arraignment, ... during those portions of the trial when evidence is taken ..., and at the time of imposition of sentence. The accused shall be personally present at all other proceedings unless he shall, with leave of court, execute in open court, a written waiver of his right to be personally present, approved by his counsel, which waiver must then be filed with the court.

Moreover, there is a Fourteenth Amendment to be present. As explained by the United States Supreme Court in (United States v. Gagnon, 1985, 470 U.S. 522, at 526.)

1 The Constitutional right to presence
2 is rooted to a large extent in the "Confrontation 3 Clause" of the Sixth Amendment. But we have 4 recognized that this right is protected by the 5 "Due Process Clause" in some situations where the 6 defendant is not actually confronting witnesses
7 or evidence against him. In Snyder v. Massachusetts, 8 291 U.S. 97, (1934), the Court explained that a defendant 9 has a due process right to be present at a proceeding 10 "Whenever his presence has a relation, reasonably 11 substantial, to the fullness of his opportunity 12 defend against the charge... The presence of a 13 defendant is a condition of due process to the extent 14 that a fair and just hearing would be thwarted 15 by his absence, and to that extent only." Id., at 105-106.

17 This same right was subsequently summarized by the Court in 18 (Kentucky v. Stincer, 1987, 482 U.S. 730, 745:

19 "Thus, a defendant is guaranteed the right to be 20 present at any stage of the criminal proceeding 21 that is critical to its outcome if this presence 22 would contribute to the fairness of the procedure"

24 Finally, there is a "Equal Protection Clause" issue arising in this situation.
25 If in-custody criminal defendants will suffer a disability by reason of not 26 being present in the courtroom at trial-setting hearings, and if out-of-custody 27 defendants will confront no such disability because physically present with 28 counsel (as section 977 requires), the issue arises whether "Similarly Situated"

1 defendants have received disparate treatment which can be justified 2 under the Fourteenth Amendment.

3 The Fourteenth Amendment "Equal Protection Clause" requires that 4 persons "Similarly Situated" receive equal treatment. See (SKinner v. Oklaho-5 ma, 1942, 316 U.S. 535.) State action which impinges on a fundamental right 6 is subject to "strict scrutiny" and is permissible only if necessary to 7 "further a compelling State interest." (Kramer v. Union Free School Dist.
8 (1969) 395 U.S. 621, 626-627. State action in a criminal context which 9 discriminates based on "poverty" involves a "suspect classification," 10 which must be evaluated under this strict standard. (In re Antazo, 11 (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 100, 110-112.

12 *Under the strict standard applied in such cases, 13 the State bears the burden of establishing not 14 only that it has a compelling interest which 15 justifies the law but that the distinctions drawn 16 by the law are necessary to further its purpose* 17 (Westbrook v. Mihaly [(1970)] 2 Cal. 3d [765] at pp.
18 784-785.)

19 (D'Amico v. Board of Medical 20 Examiners, 1974, 11 Cal. 3d 1, 17).

22
23 The issue is whether there is a rational justification, let alone 24 a compelling State interest, in applying the Faretta forfeiture rule to 25 persons in petitioners situation-- unable to make bail and accordingly 26 left at the mercy of a lower court as to whether they would appear at 27 a trial- setting-- and the more affluent counterpart who posted bail and 28 was required by law to be present at the trial setting.

1 In their Opinion Concerning this issue the appellate Court states 2 that petitioner cannot establish that he would have asserted his 3 Faretta rights had he been present in Court on March 18, 2003. Also, 4 that petitioner failed to make any effort to tell his newly appointed 5 attorney about his desire to go (Pro-se), or try and notify the Court 6 between March 18, 2003, and June 2, 2003.

7 The petitioner addresses this by saying that if the petitioner
8 could not get inside the courtroom on his scheduled Court date 9 after he told his attorney that he was going to go (Pro-se). Should 10 the petitioner then expect that a special Court date would be arr-11 nged by the Court so he could come in and be granted his (Pro-se) 12 status. This is very unlikely.

13 The petitioners Marsden hearing on the day of his preliminary 14 hearing is proof that he disapproved of his defense Counsel more 15 than one year before the trial date was set.

16 The fact that petitioner was held out of Court for seven months 17 straight shows an abnormal pattern that is contrary to Code § 977, 18 because there is no record of petitioner ever signing a waiver which 19 is suppose to be standard practice and procedure under Code § 977.

20 The fact that he was held out of Court on the trial-setting 21 date. And the trial-setting hearing was off the record. This shows 22 that the Superior Court Judge was not operating within the perimeters 23 of the United States Constitution.

24 The petitioners case was sabotaged. And there was no overriding 25 state interest that justified these actions.

20 uh, give him their wallets and money in their wallets. And one woman uh, said something to him

21 he didn't like and he did hit her. (Inaudible background voices).

22 Q: How many people are in the bathroom?

23 A: Four.

24 Q: Does she need uh, medical attention?

25 A: No, I don't think she needs uh, medical attention. Uh, she might later. You feel like you need

26 medical attention? (Background voices inaudible) She said no. But she didn't want to come in

27

1 the bathroom, he said you know, you bitch, or you know, get your fuckin' body back here, then 2 he smacked her.

3 Q: Okay. (Inaudible) where did he hit her?

4 A: I'm sorry...

5 Q: Where did he hit her? In the...

6 A: In her jaw and neck.

7 Q: Okay.

8 A: Left jaw and neck.

9 Q: I'll go ahead and have an ambulance come out as well. Our officers are on the scene, they're 10 approaching the building now. Now I want all you guys to stay in the bathroom until the officers 11 come to get you, okay?

12 A: Okay, does he know right where we are?

13 Q: Yeah, but I'm not going to let you off the phone until the cops come to you.

14 A: Okay. (Background voices inaudible)

15 Q: Yeah, I just hope that...

16 A: Hello.

17 Q: Yes.

18 A: Medical, a 211 victim. (Background voices inaudible) No have him (inaudible)

19 Q: (Dispatch) What's your name ma'am?

20 A: My name is Lesley. L-e-s-l-e-y.

21 Q: (Dispatch) Uh, um (affirm)

22 A: Pulaski, P-u-l-a-s-k-i.

23 Q: And what cell phone number are you calling on right now?

24 A: Uh, what phone number...

25 Q: (Dispatch) That's alright, don't worry if you don't know it. What's the name of your business?

26 It's Ovation?

27 A: It's called Ovation, O-v-a-t-i-o-n. It's uh, almost to the corner on Alcatraz.

1 Q: Yeah, our officers are out there now, they're trying to get in. Um, they should be coming in the 2 door in a minute, or you will hear them in the door. They don't know if this guy's still inside the 3 store.

4 A: No, but I, I would...he said get back there (inaudible). If we don't get her back there, if I don't 5 get her back there, he'll have to kill her and that he wants to just be able to get away. So that's 6 what I (inaudible) he just fled. However, I can't promise you that at all. (Background voices 7 inaudible). They're coming. (Inaudible background voices).

8 Q: Just try to, to let them know I'm just taking information from you. The police officers in the 9 field they're already out there. They're looking around for the guy right now. They want to 10 make sure he's not in the store before they bring you guys out.

11 A: (Inaudible background voices).

12 Q: The way this works is that I'm on one computer typing the information and there's a dispatcher 13 talking to the cops in the field on the other end, so.

14 Q: Did this guy have any...they're still locked in the bathroom.

15 A: (Background voices inaudible).

16 Q: This is Ovation at 3206 College Avenue, correct?

17 A: That's correct.

18 Q: If they're inside, they're not supposed to be there. They've walked in after the robbery. These 19 people are still locked in the bathroom in the back of the store.

20 A: Yeah there could be customers out in the front.

21 Q: Yeah, apparently there's customers that walked into your store. Just um...

22 A: I don't know if (inaudible) one says that it is, but it isn't. (Inaudible).

23 Q: Do you hear anybody outside ma'am, outside the door?

24 A: (Background voices inaudible) Is the door, the door open (inaudible). Hello, (inaudible) oh, are 25 you there? (Background voices inaudible).

26 Q: Is that the cop there?

27 A: Yeah.

1 Q: Okay ma'am, I going to hang up the phone. You take care.

2 A: Thank you.

3 Q: Alright bye, bye.

FILE

Witness Stacy Ramirez stated that she understood her right not to talk to the Alameda County Public Defenders Office regarding the Sherman Davis case but stated that she was willing to be interviewed. Witness Stacy Ramirez stated that she did not go out scouting for cars but when she saw cars with colors similar to the colors in question, it drew her attention to the car color but she did not bring those observations into the deliberations. Witness Ramirez said that she made her decisions based on photos presented to her at trial.

Witness Stacy Ramirez stated that during their deliberations, jury foreperson David Le Claire told the group that he saw a parked car at a BART parking lot which was either gold or silver in color and spent some time looking at it. Witness Ramirez said that Mr. Le Claire told the group that after he made his observations of this car he was convinced that the colors gold and silver looked similar under certain conditions and it made him feel "warm and fuzzy" about his decision. Witness Ramirez said that she also heard Witness Le Claire talk about this car he observed at the BART parking lot after the trial in front of the judge and jury and she was surprised that he said those things in the court room.

Witness Stacy Ramirez said that in regards to her decision making there was not a lot of physical evidence in this case. However, the testimony of witnesses and the consistency of events as well as items found at the scenes including our client's clothing influenced her decision making during deliberations.

Witness Stacy Ramirez said that during deliberations an issue came up regarding the sexual assault. Witness Ramirez said that juror Sharon Layden told the group that she either had a friend or knew of someone who worked at a clinic that dealt with sexual assaults and that she had some knowledge in this area, but Witness Ramirez could not recall what the details juror Sharon Layden shared with the group.

REPORT OF INTERVIEW

Witness Stacy Ramirez stated that during deliberations, juror James Curtis told the group that he had gone to a paint store on personal business and while there asked someone at the store if the colors gold and silver could be mistaken for each other. Witness Ramirez said that she does not recall what opinion juror James Curtis got from the store person, but he shared this opinion with the group and it was not favorable to our client.

Witness Stacy Ramirez said that the car was a big issue to her in this case and she could not say if the aforementioned jurors opinions based on outside information had any bearing on her fellow jurors decision in this case. Witness Ramirez said that she did in fact receive a letter from the Alameda County District Attorney in this case and was told that she may be contacted by the Alameda County Public Defender. Witness Ramirez said that she was asked to call the District Attorney after she was contacted by the Alameda County Public Defender in this matter.

NOTICE

The petitioner comes to this Court with a Mixed-Petition due to circumstances beyond his control, that affected his ability to exhaust state remedies before pursuing federal relief. The reason petitioner did not pursue the un-exhausted claims at this time is because when the petitioner addressed this very Court earlier, it was for an extension of time to prepare. See attachment.

Because the Court dismissed my request without prejudice, to petitioner filing a petition for writ of habeas corpus. And granted application to proceed forma pauperis, I felt that now that all of my legal materials were returned to me by the California Attorney General, see attached. It was important that petitioner exercise complete diligence in getting his completed habeas corpus to this Court.

The petitioner now appeals to the Court to allow me to exhaust issues (1 thru 9) on the state level. See (Slack v. McDaniel, 2009 529 U.S. 473)

The petitioner is in the worst maximum security prison in California and asks this Court to excuse the fact that there is only one copy of this habeas corpus. It is nearly impossible to get scheduled for the law library.

The petitioner has researched case law concerning new procedures and understands that if petitioner is allowed to go back down to the state courts and exhaust state remedies, that process must be done with great diligence by the petitioner. Thank You.

) No. C 07-4447 MJJ (PR)

) ORDER OF DISMISSAL

15 This case was opened when petitioner filed a document titled "Motion an 16 Declaration of Good Cause for Equitable Tolling and Extension of Time to File Federal 17 Petition - Criminal Conviction." In this motion, petitioner seeks to toll the running of the 18 statute of limitations for a federal habeas petition he wishes to file in the future.

19 Article III, Section 2 of the United States Constitution restricts adjudication in 20 federal courts to "Cases" and "Controversies." See Valley Forge Christian College v.
21 Americans United for Separation of Church and State, Inc., 454 U.S. 464, 471 (1982). In 22 the absence of an actual petition for a writ of habeas corpus or other civil complaint, there 23 is no case or controversy for this Court to adjudicate. See Green v. United States, 260 24 F.3d 78, 82 (2d Cir. 2001). Although, in some instances, a motion may be construed to 25 be a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, see id. at 83-84, petitioner here has not alleged 26 any grounds for such relief, and indeed it is clear that he is not asking for relief from his 27 conviction, but rather from the applicable statute of limitations. Moreover, the Court 28 cannot discern from the instant filing whether petitioner can meet even the most basic

3 pte

1 requirements for proceeding with a habeas petition in federal court and, in particular, in 2 the Northern District, such as proper jurisdiction and venue. Consequently, the motion 3 will not be construed as a habeas petition.

4 Accordingly, the above-titled action is hereby DISMISSED without prejudice to 5 petitioner's filing a petition for a writ of habeas corpus or a complaint for other relief.
6 The application to proceed in forma pauperis is hereby GRANTED.

7 This order terminates all pending motions.

22 Motion And Declaration Of Good Cause
23 For "Equitable Tolling" And Extension Of Time 24 To File Federal Petition - Criminal Conviction.

25
26 ①. I, the petitioner, Sherman Level Davis, hereby move for an 27 'extension' and 'equitable tolling' to file Federal Petition in regards 28 to Criminal Conviction.

①

1 ②. The Petition For Review received a docket number on 11/23/05.
 2 The California State Supreme Court denied it on 2/4/06. See
 3 (Exhibit-1).

4 ③. The petitioner was four months into his one year filing statute 5 under the "1996 (AEDPA)". And on 6/15/06, the petitioner was 6 transferred from Pleasant Valley State Prison, to Corcoran State 7 Prison California.

8 ④. Petitioner begin submitting requests for his legal. Asking why it 9 was taking so long to be processed by prison staff. The petition-10 er was told that his property was lost. So petitioner begin the 11 appeal process concerning his legal property. See (Exhibit-2).
 12 Five pages of documents.

13 ⑤. Kern County California, Superior Court Judge "Lynn C. Atkins" 14 ordered the California Attorney General to submit an "informal response".
 15 That resulted in petitioner receiving two boxes of property from 16 Pleasant Valley State Prison, that contained "police reports" and legal 17 notes. See (Exhibit-3(A)). And on 8/6/07, the petitioner received 18 from the California Attorney General's Office copies of the 19 following legal material.

20 (A). Opening Appellant Brief (People v. Davis), NO. A105394

21 (B). Respondent's Brief, (People v. Davis), NO. A105394

22 (C). Decision, (People v. Davis), NO. A105394

23 (D). Petition for Re-hearing, (People v. Davis), NO. A105394

24 (E). Petition for Review, (People v. Davis), NO. A105394

25 (F). Trial Transcript, (People v. Davis), NO. 143004, (Oakland Superior Court).

26 ⑥. On (Exhibit-3(B)), in paragraph one, The California Attorney Gen-27 eral states: "That the legal documents that had been inadvertantly 28 lost by Corcoran State Prison has been sent to petitioner.

- 1 ⑦. On 8/6/07, petitioner received and signed for an overnight 2 shipped package containing all of his legal material had been 3 lost since 6/15/06. (Exhibits - 3(A) (B) (C) (D) and (E))
- 4 ⑧. The petitioner is contending that "extraordinary circumstances"
5 prevented him from having access to his legal materials. Corcoran 6 State Prison lost all of his transcripts, briefs, law books, law manuals, 7 case law, and the writ that he was preparing for his Federal 8 Petition. There was an additional two boxes of petitioners per-9 sonal property that contained arrest reports, line-ups, and trial 10 notes that was held in Pleasant Valley State Prison since 7/20/05.
- 11 ⑨. Petitioner arrived at Corcoran State Prison on 6/15/06. With a 12 total of eight months remaining on his one year statute of 13 limitations for filing a Federal Habeas. Petitioner is serving 14 a (443-years) to Life sentence. And it was a total nightmare 15 watching those eight months pass by with nothing he could do 16 to help himself.
- 17 ⑩. Petitioner exhausted his remedies in the prison appeal system.
18 And eventually found relief in Kern County California Superior 19 Court under Judge Lynn C. Atkins. In (Exhibit-3), (B-thru-E).
20 The California Attorney General acknowledges that Corcoran State 21 Prison inadvertantly lost petitioner legal property. And confirmed 22 that on 8/3/07. The Attorney General had shipped to the petitioner 23 the remainder of all the legal material that had been lost.
- 24 ⑪. The petitioner therefore "prays" that the Federal District Court 25 of the Northern District. Please grant the petitioner the remaining 26 eight months of his one year statute under the (AEDPA). Eight 27 months from the day petitioner signed and took possession of his 28 legal material. On 8/6/07. A filing deadline of 4/6/08.
